Hi,

I'm a French web developer and English teacher living in Prague who's passionate about website and web application design and building.

I have been doing web development for more than two years and have built various projects with both front-end and back-end technologies such as a calendar booking web app with Flask, a website for a French accounting firm with React, or my personal portfolio website with React.

I mostly work with HTML CSS and JavaScript in React, but I also have experience with Python and Flask or even SQL, and I am constantly learning new skills in order to expand my toolset, such as Typescript which I am currently learning.

On top of my technical skills, I also bring great social and interpersonal skills which I've honed over the years I have spent working as a business / IT English teacher, which, combined to my linguistic abilities in English, French, and Japanese, make me a valuable asset for any team or company.

One of my core philosophies is that one should strive to be constantly learning new things and working on themselves, as well as encouraging those around them to do so too.

I'm looking forward to working with a great team and building cool things on the web together.
